Our Motivation

Nurturing Next-Gen Leaders

As the world moves towards creative thinking, innovation and problem solving as the cornerstone of post-high school education and job requirements, our kids remain in a holding pattern. Many experts agree that the need for educational programs that take kids out of the traditional classroom settings and provide them with an opportunity to use their imagination to build a better future for themselves is key. LifeSkills Foundation and i.Invest Competitions are designed to help the next generation of business leaders hone their venture development skills and prepare for a competitive and innovative future.
